

KEN NORRIS

YOU TOOK MY BREATH AWAY

Pandemic highway to the boneyard.

You took my breath away.

Cook's Bay in the tropic morning light.

You took my breath away.

Climbing out of clothes into nakedness.

You took my breath away.

Eating cereal slowly out of a small white bowl.

You took my breath away.

Looking at me shyly over your shoulder.

You took my breath away.

Standing there, waiting for me in the sparkling shower.

You took my breath away.

As the sun setting in blood-red sky over Huahine.

You took my breath away.
